About Me

Pamela Lue-Hing, better known as “Coach P,” has coached for more than 12 years and has over 30 years of experience in entrepreneurship, leadership, and personal and program development. She specializes in developing women coaches and helping them find their voices, tell their stories, and package and sell their products and services so they coach with confidence and attract their ideal clients with ease.

After being downsized for the third time, Pamela became a certified Christian Life Coach and trainer for DISC, a behavioral assessment tool used to enhance communication skills. She is a speaker and author of 9 publications: a four-book series entitled Pink Slip to POWERHOUSE: 12 Steps to Next; four annual Powerhouse Woman In Motion Ultimate Planning Systems; and her latest book, Powerhouse Coach in Motion: The Ultimate Playbook for New Coaches. She created these tools to teach women how to combine their purpose, life, and coaching business to transform lives while growing their bank accounts.

Pamela has a BA in Communications & Public Relations. She has received several honors and recognition for her years of service in the community and is best known for her ingenuity in building something from nothing and her uncanny ability to see the big picture, as well as, the small details. Pamela is a self-development fanatic and enjoys cheering on her son, a college-educated entrepreneur, her daughter, a professional dancer in Los Angeles, and caring for her amazing mom.
